

BIOGRAPHY

Mario Tagliabue has been working as a photographer since 1983 after gaining his degree at the Cinema School of Milan. In his career Mario has seen practically all the most important brands commission him. His works cover both traditional film cameras through to the most high tech digital ones. Mario loves the creative process from the treatment of the story, the cameras and lenses choice the light and on through the post production... all moments are good for him to add a personal imprint. This complete focus on of every intimate detail results in the beautiful images he creates. Thanks to his meticulous and continuous research, he is an esteemed and much sought after advertising expert in “food” and “table top”. Mario is constantly seeking new challenges and is very often in new different countries for filming and takes great pleasure in experiencing new cultures and the input of new crew.
